

Overview

Cellectica is the technology leader in providing language translation tools for mobile users. Cellectica's recently launched Trippo is the worlds first mobile realtime translation solution and will make life easy for people travelling abroad.

About Us

Cellectica is a privately owned Finnish company which started its operations in September 2007. Since then Cellectica has created its first products and secured important partnerships with companies like Nokia and major mobile operators.

People

Cellectica core team consists of entrepreneurs from different fields. We have worked in management positions in companies like Nokia, Nuance Communications, Profil-Bau Consulting. Our shared passion is to remove language barriers.

Typical Customers

People who need to travel, both for work as well as vacation. Expatriates.

Technology

Mobile technologies including client server architectures.

Products

Description

Key Features

Trippo™

Mobile translation service

Translates any given sentences and speaks them out with clear pronunciation. Offered as a service.

Mobile solutions

Custom made solutions which utilize mobile handsets

Any kind of application seen in the web can be made mobile. We can create a solution suitable for your specific needs.

Service & Support

Customers & Testimonials

Nokia, Download! Catalog includes Trippo, i.e millions of recent Nokia handset owners can discover Trippo in their handset.